“ok The memories are starting to flood into what little bit of a mind I have left. I remember I mean really the first time I spent any time with Patsy (after my mom and dad got back together) I would love to watch her draw and write. She had the prettiest handwriting I had ever saw. And Could draw about anything you wanted her to. I begged and begged her to teach me to write like she did, and she taught me. Now every time I will write something even if it my name I will remember her. Her telling me "no the loop goes the other way!" She used to come and get me on the weekends when I was about 11 years old and she lived in Clintwood in an apartment, she would go to the Piggly Wiggly and get Pepsi and bread and bologna and we would go back to her apartment and eat bologna sandwiches sitting on the floor and talk about when I got older we would live together. Oh the plans we made sitting on the floor eating those sandwiches, And I remember how much she loved my Dad. And her telling him to bite her big toe and my dad being my dad DID! lol she didn't tell him to many times to bite her big toe. I talked with her not long ago and made a comment to her and she told me that I was a true Conley with my little smart comments. She is one of my name sakes, so I guess I learned my comments from the best.... I love you and will forever miss you. Until we meet again, save me a place at the table. Love your "favorite niece" lol.

“ So much to say but I can't find the words to say them. I know you will be missed, you already are. Just a note to Uncle Tom and Aunt Chris.... I love you guys very much, I won't be able to be there in person but I'm going to be there in spirit. I will have a hour of silent prayer as you go through this awful time in your life. I love you guys so much.
